

Rather than Orphaned Works (and maybe this is a legal term), would it not be better to consider many of these works "abandoned". Could this be similar in concept to a Spanish galleon that sunk 500 years ago and only when the gold is brought up (after great effort) does anyone pay any attention?

Dennis Hollingshead

Administrative Assistant

Vice President for Academic Administration

Andrews University

Berrien Springs, MI 49104

(269) 471-3404

hollings@andrews.edu